

Kelley Nicholson's Biography

Kelley was born in Southern California and moved with her family to Medford, Oregon when she was thirteen. She received her degree in Fashion Merchandising from Oregon State University (Go Beavs!) and Teacher Certification from Southern Oregon State College.

Kelley met her husband, Mark, at OSU, married after graduation, and settled down in Rogue River. Mark missed Montana (born in Missoula) so they moved several years later to Big Sky Country --- Seeley Lake to be exact. In 2000 they moved to Missoula. She has two children in Missoula Catholic Schools. Her son is a freshman at Loyola and her daughter is in sixth grade at Saint Joseph.

She taught first grade in Medford, Oregon; fifth grade history, math and art at the middle school level, and worked with the with talented & gifted students in Seeley Lake, Montana. After taking some time off to be a "stay-at-home-mom", she is again working in the profession that she loves. Kelley has been teaching at Saint Joseph now for three years as a learning resource teacher. This year, she'll also be teaching a study skills class at Loyola.
